

Everything is starting to flow

Written by Steve Hildinger

Friday, 24 February 2012 21:11 -

Everything is starting to get flowing. I've sold a couple sets of electronics on eBay. This will help me work up an inventory. I have lots of other supplies and will be offering a fully assembled machine soon. We'll be offering the plastic parts at that point also, we just want to make sure everything is perfect before we start to sell any of it. If you are specifically looking for something just get into contact with us, we can probably help you out. We are very friendly :) Overall, everything is looking good.